PLAN FUSION TICKET TO VIE IN FINAL VOTE

Morgan Looms As Head of Independent List To Oppose Progressive

By Associated Press
Madison.—The contest in the Wisconsin general election, Nov. 7, will be between the Republican candidates nominated at the Republican primaries Sept. 5 and independent candidates chosen from both the Republican and Democratic ranks according to present political indications here.

Suggested fusion of Republican and Democratic forces opposed to the La Follette progressive wing of the party to set up a ticket of candidates for state office and legislature in opposition to Republican candidates nominated at the primaries is being received by politicians as the most feasible means of attempting to prevent complete control of the machinery of Wisconsin government by the progressives.

COALITION SOUGHT
Although a complete tabulation of returns has not been made, it now appears certain that Democratic candidates failed to poll a sufficient number of votes to get their names on the general election ballot. This situation has caused some Republicans to urge a coalition between the Democrats and Republicans for support of an anti-La Follette candidate.

Announcement of Attorney General William J. Morgan that he is an independent candidate for governor in opposition to Governor Blaine gives him preference as head of the proposed new state ticket, unless he is willing to withdraw for another. Leatham Smith of Sturgeon Bay, also an announced independent candidate for governor, and Roy P. Wilcox of Eau Claire, twice a gubernatorial candidate, are named as possible selections on the independent ticket should Mr. Morgan withdraw.

WOMAN TO RUN
Mrs. Jessie Jack Hooper, of Oshkosh, Democratic candidate for United States senator is expected to continue in the race as an independent candidate opposed to Senator La Follette should she fail to get a place on the tariff ticket under a Democratic party head.

The names of Karl Matthe and A. Bentley, mavor of La Crosse, Democratic candidates for governor in the primary, are named as likely candidates for lieutenant governor on the proposed fusion ticket. John F. Baker, assistant attorney general, defeated by Herman L. Ekern for the Republican nomination as candidate for attorney general, has declared his unwillingness to run as an independent. He was defeated for the nomination by Solomon Levitan, La Follette candidate, with a narrow majority, and is known to be considering the situation he would confront as an independent candidate. If a new ticket is named Mr. Johnson is expected to be the candidate for treasurer.

HEART OF U. S. GOES TO FIRST LADY OF LAND

Overwork at Capital Brings Crisis in Health of Mrs. Harding

By David Lawrence
Copyright, 1922, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington.—The wheels of government have virtually stopped except for routine. The illness of the first lady of the land has detached President Harding from all executive tasks. Officials in all the departments and members of congress considerately refrain Tuesday from bothering the president. Inquiries pour in over the white house scurboard incessantly—everybody is worrying and hoping. It is an emphasis on the human side of government and it is an evidence too of the genuine affection which Mrs. Harding is held not merely by those who know her personally but by the thousands who have learned from a time to time of the charm of her personality.

Bulletins issued Sunday and Monday gave hope of ultimate recovery but while operative procedure is deferred from day to day the general opinion is that a surgical operation cannot in the end be avoided and that it will bring the real decision. The optimism of the medical bulletins has sent cheer throughout Washington but at the white house there appears grim fear that the big crisis is yet to come.

Curiously paralleling the solemn scenes of today in the white house were the days of the first Mrs. Wilson's last illness. The same length of time had elapsed in the first Wilson administration when tragedy came, and it is said that the arduous tasks of a first lady of the land contributed no little to the breakdown which ended the life of Mrs. Wilson. There is something inordinately absorbing about life at the white house with its demands on time and energy which conquers those in poor health.

Mrs. Harding came to the white house (Continued on page 12)

Arrest is expected any time by Brown-co authorities of three men who left Wenzel Pavlik, 60, of Flintville, bleeding from the temple in his home after they had attempted to enter the place to shoot him. Pavlik is in a Green Bay hospital, where he is showing signs of recovery.

One of the men in that locality suspected of having been a member of the trio has disappeared and his movements have been traced as far as Green Bay. His name is known but authorities refuse to divulge it until his capture has been effected.

Pavlik is a widower and lives alone at his farm at Flintville, Brownco. He is said to be wealthy and owns a large amount of land. Neighbors aver that he has had disputes over land boundaries and that several people have become bitter against him and made threats of settling their grudges.

About 2 o'clock Sunday morning Pavlik heard somebody rap at his door. Not knowing who might be there and suspecting some of his enemies had come to settle a grudge, Pavlik went to a window instead of answering the knock intending to identify the visitors. He saw three men outside and while he stood before the window they shattered it with a plank.

Pavlik was struck in the temple by a large piece of flying glass and staggered backward. He then sought refuge in a shed adjoining the house, where he remained in hiding. The would-be assassins saw that he was hurt and one of them was heard to shout: "I guess we don't have to shoot him. He's going to die any way." They then departed.

Pavlik's would be profuse and he fainted. He was found in the morning by Warren Habek, a neighbor, lying in the shed in a semi-conscious condition from loss of blood. The man was rushed to Green Bay, where he revived after treatment in the hospital, and recounted what had happened to him. He will recover.

MRS. HARDING PAST CRISIS, SAYS SAWYER

Surgical Procedure Deemed Unnecessary for the Present

Washington.—The crisis in Mrs. Harding's condition seems to have been passed an official bulletin issued by attending physicians at 3:30 Tuesday morning said.

The text of the bulletin signed by Brig General Sawyer follows: Mrs. Harding's condition 8 a m temperature 98.8 pulse 94 respiration 32. Early part of night restless. Latter part comfortable. General appearance improved. Enlargement due to neobrosis decreasing. Laboratory findings favorable. Crisis seems to have been passed. Surgical procedure deemed unnecessary for the present.

The bulletin was described by members of the executive household as "the best news" that has come from the bedside of the patient since her condition became critical last week. It showed a drop of 12 degrees in temperature from Monday night and the nearest approach to normal temperature since she became seriously ill. Both pulse and respiration Monday morning were slightly above last night's readings but the physicians in attendance have emphasized these might be expected to vary.

Immediately after the morning bulletin was issued there was noticeable a decided lessening of the tension which has existed at the white house and in official circles close to the president and Mrs. Harding.

The cabinet session Tuesday, however, was called off as well as the president's semi-weekly meeting with newsmen. This action was taken, it was explained, to permit the president to remain near Mrs. Harding and to conserve his strength.

$400,000,000 TARIFF BILL AGREED UPON

Conference Report Goes To House For Approval Wednesday

By Associated Press
Washington.—The administration tariff bill as finally perfected in conference was presented Tuesday in the house and the conference report on it, bearing the signatures of the Republican managers, will be called up Wednesday with the expectation that it will be disposed of not later than Thursday. The measure then will go to the senate but because of opposition to the dye embargo and other provisions, action there may be delayed a week or more.

As framed the bill is estimated roughly by the experts to raise approximately $400,000,000 in revenue on the basis is the present volume of import trade. The level of its rate, according to the experts is slightly below the level in the Payne Aldrich bill the last Republican protective tariff but is considerably above the level of the Democratic Underwood law now in force. The bill will become effective immediately after President Harding signs it.

The house based the duties on American valuation that is the value of the American article comparable to the imported article but the senate went back to the time honored system of foreign valuation. It added however provisions which were approved in conference concerning broad authority on the president to increase or decrease rates on foreign valuation and to declare American valuation that is, the wholesale selling price in the United States, as the basis for assessing duties wherever it was shown that this was necessary.

The conferees in perfecting these provisions, however, declared that the president could not increase rates after he had declared American valuation. He might however, decrease them within a radius of 50 per cent. Where the foreign valuation remained in effect the president could raise or lower any rate within a radius of 50 per cent of that fixed in this measure.

Both Republicans and Democrats will take the fight over the bill to the country in the coming political campaign.

'Dead' Glacier Comes To Life; Chases Students
Glacier Park, Mont.—Investigation of a supposedly "dead" glacier by three University of Minnesota geological students was halted abruptly when the glacier came to life and chased the trio out of camp, the young men explained when they reached park station.

The three students, Elton Williams of Minneapolis, Charles Andrews of Pine City, Minn. and Harold Larson of Superior, Wis., had been in Glacier National park making notes on the geological formation. September 2, they began to study the famous Heavens Peak glacier pitching their camp 50 feet from the end of the ice wall. On the night of September 6 they were awakened by a dull rumbling. With daylight they discovered a widening crack some 200 feet back on the glacier and noted that the wall of ice was advancing slowly on their camp. They hurriedly moved a quarter mile west, out of the path of the glacier. Half an hour later the ice floor had descended on what remained of their camp.

UNION HEADS STUDY BASIS OF PEACE PACT

Officials Meeting in Chicago Admit That Plan Is Under Consideration

EXTEND TEMPORARY WRIT

Committee of Ninety Near Peace As Government Continues Fight for Injunction

Chicago.—A basis for settlement of the strike of railway shopmen was considered Tuesday by the general policy committee of the shop-crafts, B. M. Jewell, head of the railway employees' department of the American Federation of Labor, announced at the conclusion of the morning session.

Mr. Jewell's brief statement was the first public acknowledgment that a strike settlement basis had been presented to the policy committee notwithstanding many rumors concerning settlement plans. He, however, would give no indication what the plan was and asked that speculation concerning it be dropped in order not to interfere with the committee's discussions. There were indications, union officials said, that an agreement probably would be reached late Tuesday.

UNION LEADERS OF FIMISTIC
Mr. Jewell and other union leaders appeared optimistic and many of them were smiling when they left the conference room at noon.

The meeting adjourned for lunch to meet at 1 o'clock to continue consideration of the strike and a proposed basis for settlement which had been presented was all Mr. Jewell would announce.

Other union officials were equally cheery of manner and equally selective concerning what had gone on in the meeting although some of them said they expected a decision late Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Jewell earlier in the day said he thought a decision would probably be reached by 5 or 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

Following adjournment of the general policy committee the executive council of the striking shopcrafts went into session. The purpose of this meeting was not announced and could not be learned. As the striking shopcrafts were represented by the executive council session.

WRIT IS EXTENDED
Chicago.—With the government's temporary injunction against striking railway shopmen extended for another ten day period beginning Tuesday, hearing on Attorney General Daugherty's application for a permanent restraining order continued before Judge Wilkerson Tuesday with a vigorous effort on the part of counsel for the strikers to obtain modification of the edict.

In extending injunction Judge Wilkerson did not attempt to pass on any merits of the contents of either government or defense attorney's briefs but temporarily denying the defense motion to dismiss the proceedings.

As the second day of the hearing began, Attorney General Daugherty had made no suggestion or recommendation for modification of the bill despite his statement at Washington last week that it was not the purpose of the new New York Life Insurance Company for $10,000,000 insurance carried by her first husband who it is claimed by the plaintiff was burned to death in a cabin fire at Lake Nebagamon on the night of August 20, 1920.

The six actions involve approximately $30,000. The assignees of the defunct Multiton company of Eau Claire of which Sallstad was manager, are named plaintiffs in one of the actions.

PICK JURY FOR SALLSTAD INSURANCE MYSTERY CASE

Superior.—Selection of a jury to try the Sallstad case was scheduled to begin Tuesday at 10 A. M. Tuesday. Because of the wide publicity given the case which revolves around the mysterious disappearance of Edward J. Sallstad, Eau Claire manufacturer, attorneys believe at least a day will be required to pick the jury.

Plaintiff Leon Sallstad Richardson, in the first of six similar actions, is suing the New York Life Insurance Company for $10,000,000 insurance carried by her first husband who it is claimed by the plaintiff was burned to death in a cabin fire at Lake Nebagamon on the night of August 20, 1920.

The six actions involve approximately $30,000. The assignees of the defunct Multiton company of Eau Claire of which Sallstad was manager, are named plaintiffs in one of the actions.

NEWSPRINT AND PULP ARE FREE IN NEW TARIFF BILL

Huge Yearly Importation from Canada Makes Congress Keep up Free Policy

Washington, D. C. — Newsprint paper and wood pulp will continue to be imported free of duty under the new tariff law.

Although the former Payne-Aldrich law imposed a duty in newsprint paper the framers of the present measure recognize the fact that approximately one-third of the American consumption is imported from Canada, decided that the Underwood law policy of free newsprint paper should be continued.

The only difference between the senate and house bill paragraphs applying to newsprint paper is that the house measure permits the importation of a duty of 10 percent by order of the President in case another nation or province imposes export restrictions on paper, pulpwood or wood pulp.

HITS AT CANADIAN RESTRICTIONS

This proviso was aimed against the restriction of Canadian provinces relative to the exportation of pulp wood from crown lands. The senate finance committee approved this proviso, but it was struck out on the floor of the senate and it is considered unlikely that conferees of the senate and house will restore it.

The domestic manufacturers of newsprint paper suggested to the congressional committee that a duty be imposed, but that it be waived with respect to importations from Canada and enforced only on such imports as might come from European countries, some newsprint having been brought from Germany and Scandinavian countries. This suggestion was rejected.

Newsprint paper for the first time in a tariff law is classified separately on the free list. Heretofore it has been described as printing paper, being distinguished from finer grades of printing paper only by the value placed upon it.

RATES UNDER UNDERWOOD ACT

The Underwood act originally provided that printing paper valued at not above 2 1/2 cents a pound should come in free, while better grades should be subject to a duty of 12 percent. With the increase in the price of newsprint paper during the war it was necessary to increase this maximum from 2 1/2 cents to 5 cents in 1918 and again to 8 cents in 1920.

The Payne-Aldrich law imposed a duty of three-tenths of a cent a pound on paper valued at a cent and a duty of three-tenths of 1 cent on printing paper valued at 2 1/2 cents and not above 2 1/2 cents a pound.

The higher grades of printing paper were subject to duties ranging from five-tenths of 1 cent a pound to eight-tenths of 1 cent a pound if valued at not above 5 cents a pound, while paper valued at more than 5 cents a pound was dutiable at 15 percent.

ONLY DIFFER ON NEWSPRINT

There is no difference in the bills as passed by the house and senate in the duties on printing paper other than newsprint, the new rate being one-fourth of 1 cent a pound plus 10 percent.

The manufacturers of wood pulp asked for a duty, but the position that it should remain on the free list both because of the fact that a large part of the domestic consumption must be supplied from Canada and because of the desirability of the conservation of American forests.

In the case of pictures, calendars, cards, labels, cigar bands, and other articles lithographically printed, the senate duties are higher than in the house bill, the increase being made as a means of meeting German competition. Duties on cigar bands, for example, range from 30 to 50 cents a pound in the house bill and from 35 to 65 cents per pound in the senate bill.

Sorry You Mailed That Letter? P. O. Helps You

If you mail a letter and then wish you had not, you can get it back, according to the postal department at Washington, D. C.

To those who have spent sleepless nights worrying about a letter they mailed and then regretted their act, the postoffice department furnishes a formula of procedure if it ever happens again.

"Don't worry in the future," said Postmaster General Work, who took occasion to inform the public of regulations to cover such occasions.

"All you have to do," says a post office department statement, "is to go your local postmaster and explain to him that you want to withdraw your letter from the mails.

"The postmaster must comply with your request, provided you are the sender of the missive. These proofs consist of giving an accurate description of the letter you wish to get back, as well as presenting a sample of your handwriting.

"The rules also permit postmasters to telegraph to the railway mail clerk and get him to take a recalled letter out of a mail pouch after it has left the city. This measure is taken, however, only in emergencies."

Postmaster Will Attend National Gathering in Washington This Month

Postmaster W. H. Zuehlke is planning to attend the annual convention of the National Association of Postmasters at Washington, D. C. Sept. 27, 28 and 29.

Dr. H. W. Work, postmaster general, and First Assistant Postmaster General Bartlett will address the convention.

During last year the National Association of Postmasters has cooperated with the department in standardizing methods of postoffice procedure including instructions for postal employees, program for encouraging early mailing methods of introducing and producing a suitable course of postal instructions for use by teachers in business colleges and public schools.

THE STAGE

Experts say there is no better way to physical well being than through the dance. Many classical dancers have lived to a ripe old age. Madame Cokolova, who in her youth was one of the most famous ballerinas of the Imperial Russian Ballet, lived to be seventy-four. M. Jorgenson, teacher at the ballet school in Moscow, was 111 years old when he died.

"It was the dance," explained the odore Kosloff, a pupil of Jorgenson now internationally known for his dancing and who recently has been taking prominent parts in Paramount pictures. "I knew of no better fountain of youth than the dance. With it you do not need monkey glands."

TWO HUNDRED DANCING PUPILS

Kosloff conducts an Imperial ballet all of his own in Los Angeles. It is an Americanized model of the ballet he knew so well in Moscow, where he spent eight years learning the art of dancing as well as music painting and dramatic art. In the school are five hundred girls ranging in age from five years to eighteen, and upwards. These girls come from every state in the Union and stay until they are finished dancers.

Motion picture stars from Hollywood also make up a part of Kosloff's school. They find that study of the dance gives them grace and charm of movement and even teaches them the dramatic possibilities of their bodies—the art of pantomime. They have also found that dancing serves better than a diet for the greatest of modern in-door sports—reducing.

MISS COMPTON DISCUSSES DANCING

"Every muscle in my body is sore," said Betty Compton, pretty Paramount star, after two weeks of work in the school in preparation for the strenuous dancing role she plays in "The Green Temptation," now showing at Fischer's Appleton Theatre. In the picture Miss Compton is called upon to do a Harlequin and Columbine dance and the "Death of an Amazon Warrior" dance.

"It is easy to see what a marvelous physical developer the dance is," she explained. "After a week of lessons I felt like a new person. If I could realize the good of the dance there would be no need for the queer antics they go through to gain health and strength."

"Dancing not only invigorates the body but it lends grace to the human figure."

HOW TO LEARN DANCING

"To learn to dance properly the pupil must begin with very simple exercises," Kosloff explained. "First the girl stands at a rail along the wall and gradually develops the muscles in her legs. She is not permitted to stand on her toes until she has had at least six weeks of training. When the pupil has reached the proper form of physical development, simple dance steps are added to the daily exercises until the dancer has a full repertoire. All these preliminary exercises are done without music. The dancing master counts in rhythm for the steps, however."

"For health the dance is better than a hospital. The average dancer defeats the most carefully compiled mortality tables. If I were a physical culture expert and not a dancing teacher and actor, my advice to women and men alike would be to take up the dance. At any rate, I'd certainly rather do that than diet. How many women now-a-days are not dieting?"

"Their number would make a vast army."

PARTIES TO NAME CENTRAL BODIES

Platform Conventions Will Be Occasion for Naming State Central Committees

Madison—Platform convention of the different parties to be held here on Sept. 19 is the next event in Wisconsin politics. Fond du Lac Shops Are Operating With Skilled Men—May Not Hire Crews Back Scores of skilled mechanics from Eastern roads are being put in service at the North Fond du Lac shops of the North Western road, officials said today. In a number of instances these men, who will be listed as residents of Fond du Lac or North Fond du Lac, have brought their families with them.

This morning several who have been here for several weeks secured transportation to return East and bring their wives and families.

Division officials are satisfied with the condition of affairs in the shops at the present time. One of the barracks has been completed and will be put in use this evening. In this barracks there are quarters for 24 men.

The North Western sent out five engines yesterday that had been repaired and washed and which were pronounced to be in first class condition by the inspectors. Today four more were sent out. Four switch engines have been put in shape in the last two days and are in service.

North Western division officials say they have abandoned the idea of getting any of the former shop employees back in harness and are filling their places with skilled men from Eastern roads. At the present time the payroll at the North Western shops calls for 125 men and more are being added.

TWIN CITIES WILL GIVE GLAD HAND TO TRAIL BLAZERS

Neenah and Menasha Prepare Rousing Welcome for Highway 15 Celebrants

The Twin Cities on Lake Winnebago, Neenah and Menasha, are bound not to be outdone by any of the other cities on highway 15 in preparing a rousing reception for the official party that will inspect the highway on its formal opening Thursday.

When Governor Blaine, former Gov. Philipp, Engineer A. R. Hurst and F. A. Cannon of the Good Roads association, and other representatives of organizations interested in good roads, enter the cities on the Milwaukee Sentinel's tour of inspection, they will be greeted with a hearty welcome. Arrangements are being made by a committee of 30.

About 3,500 school children of public and parochial schools will be lined up along the course of the tour through the two cities. Several thousand flags have been ordered so that a proper and enthusiastic greeting may be extended by the children. Decorations at the entrances of Neenah and Menasha are under the supervision of a professional decorator. Railroad engines will send out welcoming screeches, to be followed by the sounds of mill whistles which will be tied down several minutes.

Thereafter a box luncheon will be tendered to the visitors by the women of the Twin Cities, assisted by Camp Fire girls and Boy Scouts. The tour will stop in these cities an hour for lunch, after which they will resume their trip, stopping in Appleton at 2:22 and finishing their trip at Green Bay at about 5 o'clock, where they will be entertained at dinner and dance.

Cuff Captures Top Prize In State Fair Swine Race

To O. P. Cuff of Hortonville, belongs the distinction of capturing the highest honors in the exhibit of Duoc Jersey sows at the Wisconsin state fair. His "Parkhurst Big Queen," a two year old sow, won the grand champion prize. Twenty one other sows of this class were exhibited.

Mr. Cuff also was awarded first prize for exhibiting a senior board of 15 months, "Winter's Top Sensation," owned by Robert Winter of Appleton, but bred by Mr. Cuff. His herd of one boar and three sows, all over 2 years, took first prize for exhibit of aged herds. He also won a number of other minor prizes.

The hog exhibit this year was the best ever held at the state fair, and the sow class straight through was excellent in every respect, in the judgment of experts. Size predominated throughout.

"Parkhurst Big Queen" was adjudged the winner for fine ideal type. She is the dam of the first prize senior yearly board owned by Mr. Winter, but bred and exhibited by Mr. Cuff.

TOURIST SEES LACK OF APPLETON ROAD MARKS

A Milwaukee man writing to the Milwaukee Journal has complained that in Appleton and Menasha the "15" signs on state highway 15 are few and far between, especially on the way south. Better south markings would be welcomed by motorists, is his opinion.

This tourist had considerable difficulty in finding his way out of Kaukauna. The route was especially hard to find at the 'nasty' turn where it leaves the car tracks and the L sign is so closely hidden in the dark at the turn that one who is not acquainted with the road will think it ends there, the man writes.

SHOP STRIKE NEARING THE END?

Comparative quiet appears to have settled over the railway shopmen's strike. It appears to be the prelude to a settlement. Both sides are, we believe, extremely desirous of reaching an agreement. There is an inclination to come to a friendly understanding, perhaps more so than at any time during the controversy.

We believe that the railroads and men alike are reaching the conclusion that a conflict of this kind is unprofitable and undesirable. It is estimated that the men have lost $100,000,000 in wages, and certainly the railroads have lost an enormous sum in depreciated equipment and inability to handle a full volume of business.

We think the less said by either side to harass or irritate the other will be for the better. Neither the men nor the railroads will be losers if the spirit of accommodation takes the place of a spirit of hostility. The less said, therefore, the better. Forces are at work beneath the surface which are rapidly tending toward a quiet understanding, and if left to themselves they probably will at a comparatively early date be successful.

The only disquieting factor on the horizon is the injunction case at Chicago. However, if this is confined strictly to a proceeding against lawlessness, and possible conspiracy it should not have a disturbing effect. We do not apprehend that the government will go any further than to indict and restrain violence, or that it will, as its first move gave reason for fearing, interfere in the strike itself. If this course is taken it ought not to stand in the way of a settlement, signs of which are quite pronounced.

MR. SCHNEIDER WINS NOMINATION

Complete official returns from the entire ninth congressional district show the nomination of George Schneider for congress by a narrow margin, few over a hundred votes. This proved to be one of the closest contests in the state in the recent primary election and a surprise to many who had expected to see Elmer Hall, La Follette candidate, poll a large vote throughout the district. The poor showing of Mr. Hall was quite as great a surprise as the nomination of Mr. Schneider, whose strength was little realized until a few days before election.

Judge Graess while defeated by a very few votes made a record for himself for the few days he actually devoted to his campaign. He could easily have been nominated by a large plurality had there been any real campaign by or for him. He commenced his campaign five working days before the primary. It was too short a time. Even a week sooner would have been sufficient. We do not believe there was a community visited by the judge which did not give him its major vote. He is one of the most effective campaigners ever produced in Wisconsin. Had he gone into portions of the district where he is less well known he would have enlisted votes by the hundred.

There was no organization work for him anywhere, except possibly in the north portion of the district. There was none whatever in Brown or Outagamie, the two largest counties. The vote for Judge Graess, ninety-five per cent of which was given without solicitation and was purely self-originated, was a great personal tribute. It shows how strong he would have been and what a plurality he would have rolled up had he gone after the honor.

If Mr. Schneider goes to the house we do not know what position he will be in to render public service, but if he goes he will have the support of this newspaper in all that he undertakes for the advancement of the interests of the district and its people. We believe that the endorsement he received by the people will carry with it a sense of high responsibility which Mr. Schneider will recognize.

THE TARIFF BILL READY

The senate and house conferees have finished their adjustment of the tariff bill. The agreement has resulted in a number of changes, most of them unimportant but a few that are of importance. In the main, however, the measure stands as drafted by the house and amended by the senate.

Regardless of what may be said for or against the various schedules, the fact is conspicuous that the duties were fixed with special regard to powerful interests. Whether the rates fixed were at the solicitation of those interests or whether they were a "voluntary contribution" to them for political support past or future is not always clear, but the distinction is trivial.

This is a Mark Hanna tariff, another Payne-Aldrich measure in which that escapade that had to do so much with turning out the Republicans in 1912 is out-Aldriched. Republican politicians at Washington simply cannot get away from this method of tariff-making. Their theory is that if certain big interests want certain high duties, let them have what they want, because if big interests prosper the country prospers and that is the road to political supremacy. It makes no difference to them that special advantages are accorded, special favors conferred. They do not care if it is a subsidized prosperity, in fact they consider the hot house variety the better for the reason that it affords a closer relation between politics and big business.

The present congress lacks understanding of public opinion. It has shown it in more ways than one in its bungling of the bonus, for instance, its seating of Newberry and its drafting of the tariff bill it is about to pass. It has done more to invite group influence in government than any congress in the last twelve years. Perhaps it will learn something of its mistake in November. The administration has a tremendous margin to trade on in its gamble with fortune, but it will be surprised at the reduction in that margin after the country is heard from. The Fordney-McCumber tariff is not a vote getter. It is a surrender to reaction at a time when reaction is about as popular as an Irish stew in London.

BUSINESS AND PSYCHOLOGY IN BASEBALL

Arrangements for the world's series have been announced by the St. Louis Browns, and orders are being accepted, in accordance with stated rules, for the games which, presumably, will be played in St. Louis. Here is an example of good business and good psychology.

Which team will win the American League pennant will be decided, in all probability, in a few days, when the New York Yankees and St. Louis Browns meet in their final series. If either team out-classes the other in those concluding games, the loser will be out of the race for the pennant. If, on the other hand, the two clubs end the crucial series practically even, the pennant will not be won until the last game of the season is ended.

Announcing arrangements and selling tickets for the world's series is good strategy on the part of the Browns' management. The action inspires the players to do their best and is a notice to the rival club that it will have to strain itself. The psychology is intended to inspire the Browns and rattle the Yankees by forcing them to over-exert themselves. The action also stimulates public sentiment to back up the home team.

The business phase is equally clever. Immense throngs will pack the park at all games, and especially the game with the Yankees.

LUMPS IN THE NECK

Superficial and deeply situated lymph nodes on either side of the neck from the angle of the jaw to the breast bone, called by doctors cervical lymph-nodes or less properly "glands," when familiarly known as "kernels" or "lumps" when enlarged, may be compared with way stations along the lines infection travels from nose or throat or teeth or gum or middle ear to the general circulation, the lymph channels draining into the jugular veins and the blood in these veins entering the right side of the heart and thence reaching the lungs. But these way stations or nodes along the lymphatic canals are not entirely passive, for the very fact that they swell and enlarge when bacterial invasion or infection occurs, as from diseased tonsils or infected teeth, means that they are active in resisting the penetration of the system by the invaders. They are in fact a second line of resistance, stations prepared for the retirement of the defense.

Anybody with acute sore throat or an infected root canal may detect slight temporary enlargements of some of the lymph-nodes of the neck—"kernels." It is only when these "kernels" increase in size so that they constitute a visible swelling or swellings remaining indefinitely, that the infection is probably tuberculosis and the condition is called tuberculous cervical adenitis. It was formerly called "scrofula," and back in the dark ages "king's evil" as we remarked yesterday.

Twenty years ago surgeons were radically attacking these lumps and dissecting them out of the neck, in rather formidable operations. The surgeons have learned that tuberculous, at rate, is a type of infection best treated conservatively. Nowadays surgical measures are applied only when one of the nodes or "glands" undergoes acute inflammatory suppurative and then a simple drainage is effected or perhaps mere removal of the pus thru an aspirating needle. Occasionally it is wise to remove the tuberculous cervical nodes when there are only two or three nodes involved and they are close together.

More important than any operative or other local treatment is the careful correction of the hygiene of the patient's life. A general program or regimen much the same as for one with pulmonary tuberculosis is necessary.

In practically every case of lumps in the neck the tonsils and adenoids should be removed, for in these useless structures the primary focus of infection is commonly seated. In case of long standing, with chronically discharging sinuses or openings on the surface, tuberculin treatment is often beneficial.

X-ray treatment has proved successful in many cases of tuberculous lymph-nodes. The best of all treatments, perhaps is heliotherapy—the sun bath treatment, if this is available, and the patient can have the care of physicians experienced in its use or the advantage of a sojourn in sanatorium where heliotherapy is employed. Mere exposure of the neck to the sun is not heliotherapy. The entire body must be treated, just as in other forms of so-called surgical tuberculosis, if success is to be expected. The patient needs the open air treatment quite as much as does the victim of lung tuberculosis.

Resume of American and Foreign Newspaper Opinion

ANTHRACITE INDUSTRY NEEDS INVESTIGATION AND REFORMS.

The compromise agreement reached in the anthracite industry does not meet with any general approval from the newspapers in sections which are directly affected by it. Generally the opinion is expressed that unless a real investigation is instituted by Congress, and the entire coal industry regulated, the crisis simply has been postponed and will return a year from now. The Washington STAR leads the argument in insisting that a permanent settlement must be worked out between now and Sept. 1, 1923, which will guarantee production and protect American business. In general most of the Editors advocate governmental action which will stabilize an industry "now admittedly conducted on a haphazard plan."

The Scranton TIMES characterizes the outcome as a "great victory" for the miners who retain everything they held when the walk out took place and have prevented installation of compulsory arbitration. It insists that "there is absolutely no reason why coal prices should be advanced one cent over prices asked last Spring. The Times also calls attention to the fact that "during the suspension there has not been a dollar's damage to mining property." It reads the comment with the caption "The strike that wasn't—except that it was." The Newark NEWS recalls that the anthracite suspension was to bolster union plans in the soft coal fields and that the unions got "probably all they hoped to exact." The Springfield UNION, however, believes that as a result of the shortage from the strike "unless there is forceful and effective action by Federal and State Governments to boost the coal supply, the scarcity to boost the price." This shortage, the Worcester TELEGRAM finds, "represents 40,000,000 tons for which the consumer will have to pay. The people who actually get coal to burn will be the people blessed with a coal administrator who goes out and gets coal."

GERMANY DIVIDED OVER LEAGUE

Berlin.—The German press holds widely varying opinions about the desirability of entering the League of Nations, when the opportunity arrives, as it is expected to do at the coming meeting of the league's Assembly. In general, the democratic and socialist papers are favorable to it, but the monarchist and reactionary press "sees no advantage in the step."

Dr. Karl Maser writes in the nationalist GERMANIA in opposition, and takes the tone that if the Entente is now ready to admit Germany it is not through any love for the Germans, but because the League needs Germany more than Germany needs the League. He admits that there may be certain practical advantages—right to appeal to the League in cases of disputes, etc., but adds: "It is hefting Germany's rank to solicit a place that has been accorded solely to the smallest and most insignificant states? Do not her population and economic and moral development entitle her to demand a place on the Council, which is far more important than the Assembly? There can be no doubt about the answer to this, seeing that Germany had the role of a great power at Geneva."

"Can Germany be denied at Geneva what she had at Geneva? Is it not provoking and illogical to force Germany to beg for a position that Liberia and Haiti have had for three years? A people must not lower itself. Germany cannot enter unless she is guaranteed a permanent place on the Council."

But as the prospects of this are small, says the writer, "Germany has only to wait. Time is not working against us. Unless all signs fail, the barriers will soon fall. We can and must wait until then."

Dr. Fritz Klein writes in similar vein in the DEUTSCHE ALLGEMEINE ZEITUNG, saying that "Germany is the greatest nation in Europe, if Russia is not placed on an equal footing with us. Our demand must be submitted to no condition and no vote."

On the other hand the liberal FRANKFURTER ZEITUNG publishes an article by General von Deimling, urging adhesion, first because Germany will then be in a better position to defend her rights and interests, secondly because she can then take up with the League the questions of Danzig, the Saar, and of her lost colonies. The General continues:

"But here is the principal reason: by entering the league we can show that distrust of us, now so prevalent, is unjustified, and that we are truly ready to cooperate with the rest of Europe. Our adhesion would inspire confidence, our refusal distrust. Now we need the confidence of other nations, without whose collaboration and help we cannot emerge from our distress."

"For all these reasons it would be a great mistake not to present our application before the September meeting. It is a high time to act now. Germany must enter immediately into the League of Nations."

WOMAN BATTLES PYTHON.

London.—The Daily Express correspondent at Nairobi saw only the stump of an old tree saved a native woman from a horrible death near Nairobi.

She was working in a garden near a river when she was seized by a water python and dragged towards the water. On the way she managed to clutch hold of the stump of an old tree.

A terrible tug of war then began between the python and the woman. Just as her grip on the tree was weakening some natives, attracted by her shouts, rushed up and killed the python.

the future is about all the public carries with it out of the strike." Both views are fully endorsed by the Manchester UNION which asserts that "the need for light on the dark mysteries of the coal industry is not a matter for argument."

The compromise is characterized as a "make-shift" by the Worcester TELEGRAM to be "welcomed only because it does result in renewed mining and makes toward the relief of a critical emergency which simply had to be relieved. Nobody is quite satisfied. Unless we can establish the industry upon a scientific basis of some durability as free and untried Americans we remain absolutely at the mercy of the United Mine Workers." Neither side "gained" through the settlement, the Philadelphia RECORD insists, arguing that "it is impossible to recall a strike in which such stupidity has been displayed by all the parties in interest, including the Federal Government. Hundreds of millions have been lost and nothing has been gained except an agreement as to a commission which is to investigate as dozen of others have done and report to Congress. Could there be a more biting commentary on the fatality of the strike as a method of securing industrial justice?" All of which convinces the New York HERALD that "Government regulation without Government ownership would bring order and economy into an industry that is now run haphazard. It would protect the public from the evils that are so evident at this moment. Without a drastic change in the coal business the United States will never be free from the menace of the empty coal bin." However, the Altoona MIRROR insists that the settlement means the "end of the coal famine" and points out that it now "is up to the railroads which have many cars in storage. These cars will be required in the coal trade. Settlement of the strike in turn booms business for the railroads and railroad men."

Make Oceans Earners

To harness the ocean's waves and make them do man's work, the Stodder Wave Power Corporation is formed at White Plains, N. Y.

Floata, rising on waves, will pull chains that will run compressed air engines. So claim the organizers. Whether the scheme works, it is only a question of years until part of the gigantic power of ocean waves and tides will become man's slave.

Human laziness will find a way to harness tremendous power now going to waste in nature.

Whether you will have enough coal this winter depends more on railroads than on mines. The mines can produce enough soft coal. Getting it hauled to consumers will be a bigger job than the railroads have ever done.

The only permanent solution of the fuel power is to put the nation on an electrical basis, power generated by burning coal at the mines. A starving nation, however, isn't helped by knowledge that food will be plentiful 20 years from now.

Grandpa can remember when only a few rooms of the home were kept heated in winter. Kitchen and dining room were shut off after bedtime and the family gathered around a base-burner in the only warm room. Bedrooms were so cold the water in the pitcher froze during the night.

Present generation is soft, not satisfied unless every room in the house is warm enough to fry an egg. It might do the health good to go back to old-fashioned heating methods for a few months. Even a coal shortage can have its good side. It may teach us not to be too extravagant with fuel.

Big plans under way, for the exposition to celebrate 150th anniversary of signing of Declaration of Independence.

It will be held in Philadelphia in 1926.

That is four years away, things move fast in modern times, and four years may bring many changes. For one thing, you may go to the exposition in a flying flyer—electricity, sent by wireless, its motive power.

How much money do you expect to have in 1926? Make the Philadelphia trip if you can. Travel broadens.

Ships lost at sea in 1921 totaled 155 steamships and motor vessels and 83 sailing craft. So reports Lloyd's, insurance firm of London.

On a tonnage basis, steamships lost at sea are about 1 in 230 a year. The "dangerous" airplane!

A young German working in a cigar factory at Breslau was badly injured several years ago. Surgeons removed his fractured ribs and replaced them with ribs of gold and platinum.

Now the young man says he lives in a perpetual nightmare, afraid hold-ups will operate on him and take his ribs. We don't know the chances of that in Germany, but over here it would be nearly a certainty.

Women Now Wash as Fabric Experts

Important Step Due to GREEN ARROW

Textile mills avoid the ordinary white and yellow laundry bars that are part "filler" and only part soap, says Dorothy Vernon, writing to women in a large number of newspapers. The fabric mills use olive oil soap because its mildness never harms fibers or colors, but on the contrary, olive oil imparts softness, freshness and sweetness unlike anything else.

There was not until recently, she says, that the housewife could wash her clothes as the manufacturer does. But now the Palmolive Co. has given the home a large, pure all-olive soap bar named GREEN ARROW containing not "filler" but real olive oil and naphtha. The olive oil—not coloring—gives it its greenish shade, like the castle there never has been another laundry soap that leaves the hands of the washer as soft as the castle soap—no "filler." You'll find in a month or two that you're buying only GREEN ARROW is all cleaning power and goes nearly twice as far as the ordinary.

MRS. LULA VANN FULTON, ARK.

Suggests to Suffering Women the Road to Health

Fulton, Arkansas.—"I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a soreness in my side. I would suffer so badly every month from my waist down that I could not be on my feet half the time. I was not able to do my work without help. I saw your Vegetable Compound advertised in a newspaper and gave it a fair trial. Now I am able to do my work and don't even have a backache every month. I cannot praise your Vegetable Compound enough and highly recommend it to those who have troubles like mine. I am willing for these facts to be used as a testimonial to lead all who suffer with female troubles, as I did, to the right road to health."—Mrs. LULA VANN, Box 43, Fulton, Arkansas.

It's this sort of praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, given by word of mouth and by letter, one woman to another, that should cause you to consider taking this well-known medicine, if you are troubled with such symptoms as painful periods, weak, nervous feelings, miserable pains in your back, and cannot work at certain times.

NEW LONDON BANK HAS DAIRY DISPLAY

Wisconsin Dairymen's Association Observes Fiftieth Anniversary

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—On a large display board in the front window of the Bank of New London last week was a group of photographs portraying the progress of the dairy industry in Wisconsin during the last 50 years. The pictures were procured from the extension service of the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin and are photographs of exhibits in the stock pavilion during "Farmers' Week" this spring.

This year marks the fiftieth anniversary of the organization of the Wisconsin Dairymen's association and the photographs show what the last half century of organization, science and invention has achieved in the dairy business. There are pictures of the farm of 50 years ago with its simple tools and crude log houses and no dairy equipment beyond the dash churn and the butter bowl. Another photograph shows how science and invention have contributed to dairy progress through the invention of the centrifugal separator and the milk machine and numerous other inventions.

Across the foot of the display board is a card bearing the slogan of the Wisconsin Dairymen's association: "Fifty Years of Dairy Progress—Let's Plan for Fifty More."

HIGH SCHOOL IS FILLED TO LIMIT

Completion of New Building Is Awaited to Relieve Difficult Congestion

Kaukauna—Enrollment in Kaukauna high school now exceeds 250 students. The percentage of increase this year has been beyond expectations. The rooms occupied by the school were built to accommodate about 125 persons, causing a marked congestion. Practically every seat now holds two students. The class rooms are in use every hour of the day but are inadequate due to the large classes. It probably will be found necessary to add more teachers to the faculty if rooms can be found in which they can teach. Considerable difficulty is being experienced in setting programs without conflicts.

The completion of the new high school will solve the congestion problem and the Park school problem. That school is overcrowded and it will be necessary to send several classes into the training school in spite of protests from parents.

Vats Of Human Carcasses Drained For Moonshine

If Appleton lovers of moonshine could see the unsanitary location of stills, the vermin, maggots and dead animals which have been found in vats of mash, it is safe to say the majority of them would be total abstainers forever.

Stills discovered in recent raids by state and federal prohibition enforcement officers some of them near Appleton were the filthiest objects the authorities here had ever seen, and some of the manufacturers of it were as filthy.

Filth is not the only object of abhorrence but the injurious substances used in the manufacture of it as well. Large quantities of concentrated lye have been found in hundreds of gallons of seized product. Wood alcohol and rubbing compounds are also prevalent. But the most nauseating method employed by violators and recently discovered by officers is that by which vats containing human bodies used for distilling by university students are being drained for alcohol.

Federal prohibition officers are taking steps to educate agents along the line of manufacture and transportation of industrial and denatured alcohol. They will be taught the differences in varieties of alcohol, and it is believed that violations of this nature will be greatly lessened. A series of conference of directors and other officials in various sections of the country to discuss numerous problems and map out plans for solution will be held. Such a conference will soon be held in this state.

Over 12,000 convictions for violations of the eighteenth amendment have been held in federal courts last year showing that courts and juries are displaying an improved attitude when because of the growing tenseness of the labor problem, managers will be selected for their ability to deal successfully and amicably with labor rather than because of their capacity as production managers.

Today evening a banquet for the alumni of Lawrence college was held. The meeting was presided over by Henry Johnson, president of the association. The Rev. G. K. McInnis for merly superintendent of the district, acted as toastmaster, and the address of the evening was delivered by Dr. Samuel Plantz, president of Lawrence college.

ROSEBUSH GIVES ADDRESS BEFORE M. E. CONFERENCE

Says Business Managers Must Cultivate Good Will of Workingmen

That personal relationship still remains the supreme relationship in business and that the social engineering is the great vital element in successful production, was the statement of Judson G. Rosebush, Appleton manufacturer in an address on "Personal Relations in Industry" delivered before the Wisconsin Annual Conference of the Methodist church at Oshkosh closing Monday.

Mr. Rosebush cited a strike which occurred in 1919 in Wisconsin when 1,000 paper mill workers walked out. The mills were strictly modern in their various departments, but the men at the head were not good business men in the handling of labor matters, he believed. In their zeal for making the plant a success they had almost entirely centered their thoughts on markets and mechanical efficiency and had forgotten to build up the personal side.

The time is approaching, he said.

BOTTRELL COW IS HIGH PRODUCER IN THIRTY-DAY TEST

Dale - Hortonville Association
Has 42 Bovines in 40-Pound
Class for Month

Forty-two cows of the Dale-Hortonville Cow Testing association produced more than 40 pounds of butterfat each for the 30 days ending Sept. 1, according to the monthly report of V. Rapraeger, secretary, and Orin A. Minarik, official tester. Of this number 34 were grade Holsteins, one was a purebred Holstein, two were grade Guernseys, three grade Jerseys and two purebred Jerseys.

A seven-year grade Holstein cow, No. 7, of Milford Bottrell's herd was as high cow for month of production of butterfat. Her record was 65.8 pounds of butterfat, 1,497 pounds of milk, with a test of 4.4 per cent.

"Rickman," an 8-year grade Holstein, belonging to Otto Meyer led the Bottrell cow in the number of pounds of milk produced, which was 1,531, but was behind in the production of butterfat—50.5. Second honors for the production of butterfat go to Culbertson brothers' 9-year purebred Jersey, which produced 64.9 pounds of butterfat to her 88.9 pounds of milk, making a test of 7.3 per cent.

RESURRECTION ROCK

BY EDWIN BALMER
Little, Brown and Company

"It is so nice of you to come here, Miss Ethel. Mrs. Cullen will be so pleased when she hears of it." Mrs. Wain always spoke as though Angus was certain to return. "I was wondering yesterday if this might mean you were soon to arrive."

"This" was a letter which the housekeeper was offering—a square, firm, well-filled envelope with British stamps and with the British strip, "Opened by the Censor." The address was written in bold, vigorous handwriting which Ethel observed with a start.

The letter from Barney's friend of the Canadian battalion who had written Barney of her father's attempt to speak to him, who had told Barney to hasten to Resurrection Rock and had foretold that he would find some one named Bagley and another person named Carey there. The letter read: My dear Ethel Carey:

I am addressing you without the usual prefix of Miss or Mrs. because I do not know which to use.

I am writing you to report the substance of a communication meant for you and which was received from a person who is dead.

This afternoon, when sitting with Mrs. Brand, Phil Carey once more was present and wished to speak. Perhaps because it was earlier in the sitting and the medium was not tired, I received several perfectly clear and coherent messages. What I had done in regard to Barney Loutrelle was wrong. When I asked how wrong, I received the reply: "Not so much wrong as incomplete."

I then asked what I should do to make it complete, and I got the reply:

"It is no use, really, at all. Earlier it seemed so now. It is no use without Quinlan."

When I asked for Quinlan's whole name and address and who "she" was, I got the reply, somewhat impatiently, "James, of course; James Quinlan, Chicago." And he said that "she" was Ethel Carey and requested me to write her at once about all of it. I will quote this verbatim since, though it was meaningless to me, it was clearly most important. I told him not only I but Robert, who is here beside me, says to do it. That is the only way, and he will be happy when it is over. It must be done. Tell him the cost there is nothing."

Very sincerely,
HUSTON ADLEY,
CHAPTER X

Bennet Cullen, oldest son of Lucas Cullen, Junior, was a hearty young man who considered that whenever he had something particularly difficult to do with anybody, it always made matters easier to give that person a good dinner, and in his cousin "Ethel" he found he had an obstinate proposition.

The big room in the Blackstone was clearing as groups departed for the opera; the nearest table all were deserted. Bennet paid his check and lit a cigarette; he leaned easily upon the table.

"Do you know any one named Quinlan?" she asked.

"Old Jim Quinlan? Surely. Father used to have him about the south side yards for old time's sake."

"Why?"

"He was with grandfather years ago."

"Oh, was there some one connected with him named Robert?" Ethel asked.

"Bob Quinlan? He was his grandson."

"Was?" Ethel repeated. "He's dead?"

"Shot down in flames near Cambrai, he was," Bennet said. "He got into aviation as observer and machine gunner. Old Jim, I hear, went sort of nutty not long afterward. It seemed that Bob was all he had left. Lost most of the rest of his family in disasters, some one said; then the war took Bob."

"How long ago was he associated with grandfather?" Ethel returned.

"Where was it?"

"Why, back in the old pine days."

Bennet replied impatiently. "Old Jim was head sawyer of one of grandfather's mills. Lost his fingers then; has only half his fingers on his right hand. Why?"

"I came back here because—" Ethel began, looking steadily at her cousin.

"The trouble I had with grandfather at St. Florentin, Ben," she made another start, "was over a man whom Kincheloe killed on Resurrection Rock."

"Killed a man?" her cousin was repeating in a whisper, looking about swiftly and then bending further over the table.

"You mean—murdered him?"

"Oh, Ben, I don't know, but I'm afraid so."

"What—the devil—" Bennet scolded. He glanced about and shifted his feet as though to rise.

"Give me all of this," he commanded. "Straight."

So she told him quietly and without passion as "straight" as she could.

"You say you accused grandfather—" he assailed her hotly, when she had finished, "of killing this Loutrelle pick-up of yours?"

"That's true. I said I was mistaken. It wasn't Barney; it was—"

"You—you fool," he said to her in pitying disgust. "You little fool."

She sat back, white and quivering under the constraint of controlling herself against Bennet's anger.

Before writing to Barney that night, Ethel reread the letter from Huston Adley. Her immediate course of action had become quite plain to her; yet she reconsidered the thoughtfully before recording her purpose.

"My dear Mr. Loutrelle," she addressed Barney. "Last night I had a remarkable experience—" and she detailed how she had confirmed, through her cousin, the existence of James Quinlan and Robert and the history of James Quinlan's associations with her grandfather and his recent disappearance.

"Before I met you and you told me of your experience with the Philip Carey who wished to speak with you, and before this letter about my father came to me, I might have visited a medium without thinking so much about what I was doing."

"I want to be very sure that, when I try, it will be through some fitting person—that nothing about my approach to him will degrade him or lead me into danger of offending or losing or even misunderstanding him. For that reason I would be very glad if you could write me whatever you think will help me; you know how little I know about these matters; and I do not know whom to approach here. It would be far better for me if you could happen to be here. Oh, I am not asking that. But if you find the man, the one who had decided to remain near the Rock, come down here and I'll wait for you."

"ETHEL CAREY."
Your friend.

She was a little quivery as she undressed and made ready for bed. It was difficult, when living among the articles chosen and arranged by Agnes and so expressive of her tireless vitality, to believe that she could have been completely obliterated.

There was a large, flat package from London, tied with cord and stamped with English postage; the censor had opened it, sealed it again and sent it on. The paper bore the legend, "Photographs."

She found three photographs, all identical, of a group of young men in uniform who appeared to be officers of the Canadian and of the American armies. The faces were all strange to Ethel until, with a start which stopped the beat of her heart, she recognized Barney Loutrelle. In each of the prints his identity was unmistakable.

Her uncle Lucas called early the next morning to ask what she was doing about her business matters. When she said that she had failed to obtain any description of him, he decided to "protect" her interests in the projects under way.

That afternoon she received a letter from Barney in which he reported that upon his return to the Rock he had found affairs just as she had left them.

"I have seen no one from St. Florentin," Barney continued. "But I have found an Indian who saw a stranger about here three days ago who, I think, is the fellow that slept in that shack opposite Rest Cabin, Miss Carey. From what I can make out from Ozibee, he was an old man who seemed a bit off his head from exposure, perhaps. Anyway, he seemed wholly purposeless and harmless, and I think we were wrong in connecting him up with our affair. I couldn't obtain any description of him, but he was tall and gray-haired and wore a short mitten on his right hand as the ends of his fingers were off."

This determined Ethel to telegraph Barney to come at once to Chicago. But before him, two others took the train from Quebec for Chicago—Lucas Cullen, Senior, and his wife. And first news confirming the assumption upon the day of their arrival, the assumption of Agnes's death reached.

It came to Lucas Cullen, Junior, in a communication not dissimilar to that letter which had awaited Ethel at Scott street; but Lucas's letter, instead of being from an unknown person, was from an English peer of international reputation for his work in sciences. He wrote to report a message which he had received from the other world which stated that "Agnes Cullen," having become cognizant, in the next existence, that uncertainty as to her death was causing confusion in this world, wished it known positively that she was dead.

CHAPTER XI

Lucas Cullen, Senior, received information of this extraordinary bit of intelligence soon after his arrival at his son's home.

"What are you considering doing?" his son inquired.

Lucas laughed as he liked to laugh when planning a shrewd and clever coup. "Hale Sir Horace Clebourne into court, of course, to swear for us that Oliver's wife is dead! Then when we have our English ruling, we'll carry it into our courts on the verity—is that a good, legal-sounding name, Luke?"

"I think it will do," Luke said. "On the verity of the death of our dear Agnes, as already presumed by the court—but not proved. So we prove it, witness, Agnes herself; testimony taken and sworn to by Sir Horace Clebourne, Doctor of Science, Baronet and the rest; sworn to by the best brains of England. We'll get 'em! I know it's new, son—it's new, but the old man never had to wait for some one else to show how to do a thing."

THEIR WEDDING GIFT WAS THEIR START TO SUCCESS

Theatrical Producer's Present to Couple Conveys New Idea in Presents

Wedding gifts are always a problem. There are, of course, silver, linens, lace and china to select from but when the desire to be original manifests itself trouble begins.

And usually, after a week of frantic searching for something different, one lands triumphantly upon the very object 14 other people decided to give.

A decidedly original wedding gift was received by Katherine Cornell when she married Guthrie McClintic. It came from Winthrop Ames, the theatrical producer. He gave the bride a play, stipulating that her husband should have the sole rights of production.

And it was no inconsequential play. It was one by A. A. Milne, one that a number of producers would have been glad to buy at a fat figure—"The Dover Road."

They became so excited over the gift they decided not to take a wedding trip, but to start production at once.

By summer the play was coming along beautifully and had earned so much money that they could take an extended honeymoon trip in Europe and then have enough left to buy new plays to be produced on their return.

And after eight months on Broadway, the original play is about to go on tour and make more money on the road. All of which causes Miss Cornell to say:

"I shall never again give gifts that are not useful. When I think of the fun we've had with this play, and the splendid start it has given us, I am convinced that it is foolish to give gifts people have to keep in a safe or spend a lot of time keeping in order."

"To be sure, there are few people who could give plays for gifts, and possibly few who would want them, but how many there are who could give young people a start rather than a responsibility."

"I've known couples whose marriage was practically doomed from the start, all because their well-meaning relatives and friends gave them such expensive wedding gifts. They couldn't take them to the sort of a home they could afford, and couldn't afford the sort of a home they ought to go to, and trouble began."

"From now on, every gift I ever give is going to be a useful one, no matter how small it is."

Katherine Cornell is a Buffalo girl, who formerly taught dramatic art in the Buffalo high school. Now she's making a name for herself on Broadway.

Adventures Of The Twins

Squirrel's Hunch Vain.
The Twins hunted every where for Mr. Peabody, the lost Man in the Moon.

They were asking the woodfolk when Scramble Squirrel came bounding along and was just about to shun him when he saw just about to shun him when he stopped to listen.

"What's it all about?" he asked. And so the whole thing had to be explained over again.

"Say," said Scramble, "I've got an idea. What does Mr. Peabody look like?"

Nancy told him. "And does he keep looking for something all the time?" asked Scramble excitedly.

"Dead he does," remarked Nick. "Why, Mr. Squirrel, did you see him?"

"I'm not sure," declared Scramble mysteriously. "You see," he said importantly, "I have cousins who live in the park in the city, and every once in a while I go to visit them. If you come with me I think I can show you Mr. Peabody."

Away went Scramble like the wind, followed by the Twins in their magic Green Shoes.

At last they came to the city and soon reached the park.

"There," said Scramble, pointing proudly toward a still figure of white marble in the center of a smooth green lawn. In one hand the figure carried a map of the world and with the other hand he was shading his eyes as if he were looking for something very important.

"Scramble, dear," said Nancy in a kind but disappointed voice, "That's not Mr. Peabody. Don't you see what it says. It says, 'Columbus discovering America.'"

"Well, I declare!" said Scramble, "I shouldn't think he'd need to look so hard. It's right under his nose!"

WOMEN ARE FINANCIERS BUT NEED BUDGETS

MRS. EDITH MCCLURE PATTERSON

BY MARIAN HALE

Eighty-five per cent of the money in circulation passes through women's hands. Statistics show that they get about 33 1/3 per cent value for every dollar they spend.

Common sense shows there is a big leak somewhere.

To locate this and remedy it the women of Dayton, O., are undertaking a three-month campaign for three months, which will include a systematic study of buying, budgeting and saving.

Mrs. Edith McClure Patterson, who is organizing the work in Dayton and is chairman of the committee of the federated women's clubs of the state of Ohio, explained the plan to me.

EVERY HOME ON BUDGET

"We aim to put every home on a budget," she announced, "but by budgeting we don't mean an elaborate system of bookkeeping or the keeping of a slavish record of every cent that is spent."

"We mean a systematic reconciliation of the income and the expenses, in order to gain the greatest happiness and pleasure as well as to get the utmost value for every cent expended."

"Different incomes and living conditions require individual budgeting, but here is a good division with which to start. Out of every dollar spend—

25 per cent for food

20 per cent for clothing

20 per cent for shelter

10 per cent for upkeep

16 per cent for self-advancement and pleasure

10 per cent for saving

"A housekeeper may adjust these proportions until they fit her needs most comfortably."

MUST BE "BUSINESS"

"When women will regard the management of a home as just as important an item as the management of a factory they will get the thrill from housekeeping men get from business."

"In Dayton we are carrying on the campaign through the women's clubs, banks, merchants and the press. The banks are co-operating by making out budgets, and giving us their financial problems. Stores have offered their buyers to tell us about the value of produce and the time and conditions under which to buy most advantageously. Schools, churches and papers are promoting our propaganda of saving."

"We will carry our plan through out the state by means of the women's clubs and we hope to make it nationwide."

Mrs. Patterson is a niece of the late John H. Patterson and it was through his influence that she undertook welfare and social work.

Household Hints

WITH SLEEVELESS FROCKS

Beauty doctors say that the elbows may be beautified by rubbing them every night with warm cocoa butter. After the massage the elbows should be rinsed in cold water or rubbed with a piece of ice.

SEPARATE BLOUSES

Nervous, square meshed laces are mounted on chiffon, usually of a bright color, and used for separate blouses. They are usually worn over the outside of the skirt, Russian blouse fashion.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

There is very little quarrelling between mother and daughter in law in Fiji Island.

That is because the wife dares not address the mother-in-law—that implies a disrespect that cannot be booked. However, through the husband, the mother-in-law is dictator in the home and the wife has practically no rights.

DRIVER BLINDED BY LIGHT, RUNS IN DITCH, ONE DEAD

By Associated Press

Rhineland—Ruth Emerson, of this city, is dead and several others are badly shaken up as a result of an automobile accident near here late Saturday night. According to Walter Cole, driver of the car, the bright lights of an approaching automobile blinded him, thereby causing him to drive in the ditch, the car turning turtle pinning the occupants underneath. The driver of the other car according to Cole drove on without rendering aid.

TESTED RECIPE

CHICKEN FRITTERS

By Bertha Shapleigh

- 12 slices stale bread
- 1 cup cooked chopped chicken
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1/4 teaspoon celery salt
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 cup milk

Cook the chicken with seasonings. Add flour and when blended with the meat add milk and cook until a paste is made. Spread this paste between slices of bread making six sandwiches. Cut off the crusts and dip each sandwich in a mixture of one cup of milk and two eggs beaten slightly. Fry in butter a golden brown on each side. Serve hot, garnished with crisp celery.

NOTE: These so-called "fritters" may be made of any kind of leftover cooked meat excepting beef, and also crab meat. Always season to taste, the amounts given being sufficient to make palatable. This recipe makes six fritters.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED

You do not begin to put on your wraps until the theater performance or the concert is over.

To do so annoys those around you and is rude to the performers.

A woman may remove her hat upon entering a theater or she may wait until just before the curtain rises. She should never wait until the performance is started and she has to be reminded by the person behind her.

Leg Beauty Is Question Which Upsets Follies

New York—Said Gilda Gray to Miss MacNicol, "Those legs of yours induce a giggle. 'My dear, how do you get that way?'" said Josephine to Gilda Gray.

Casual remarks, something to that effect, have resulted in the battle of the Follies. Gilda Gray of the Ziegfeld vs. Josephine MacNicol of the Greenwich Village. Both members of the Forty-Second Street Country Club.

The rivalry over the possession of the most beautiful legs in the world began when Miss MacNicol's press agent dropped a careless remark about Josephine's legs. Unfortunately, he had not looked around the room before speaking. Had he done so he would have noticed the reporter near by jotting down the P. A. statement.

To the dismay of the press agents and everyone connected with the show, this remark appeared in several metropolitan dailies. Of course they admitted Josephine's legs were the most symmetrical in the world but 'don't you think it rather had taste to thrash these things out in the papers?'

Now Miss Gilda Gray premieres dances of the Ziegfeld Follies whose ability to shudder to music has aroused the interest of the medical profession particularly eye specialists, is proud of her legs. The MacNicol boast piqued the temperamental artiste.

That night, over the glasses of chocolate malted milk which the two danseuses were drinking after a strenuous evening in the cause of art, Miss Gray called Miss MacNicol's attention to the newspaper story.

Of course, everything was perfectly ladylike and all that sort of thing but there are two results of the gentle words that passed that evening:

SCALLON WINS MEN'S CITY TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

DEFEATS PEABODY IN THREE STRAIGHT SETS AT 'Y' COURT

Total of Thirty-Six Games Necessary to Decide Winner in Finals

Paul Scallon is Appleton's new tennis champion. Scallon won the crown late Monday afternoon when he defeated S. C. Peabody in the last of the finals in the net. The tournament started about three weeks ago on the Y. M. C. A. court with 21 entries. Peabody lost three straight sets but 36 games were necessary before the laurels were decided. The match began 4:45 o'clock in the afternoon after it had been postponed Thursday, Friday and Saturday on account of the rain storms. The scores for the sets were 7-5, 6-4, 8-6. Both Scallon and Peabody demonstrated considerable skill. Fast balls were features of both men. A fair gallery was present. The Y. M. C. A. tennis courts will be maintained for another two weeks, or a month, depending entirely upon weather conditions, according to P. Jensen, athletic director who has returned this week after a vacation in his home in Eau Claire.

MANITOWOC GRID TEAM LACKS BEEF

Coach John Worries As Time Draws Nearer To Appleton Encounter

Manitowoc—Although there are thirty-four candidates for the high school football team on the line, Coach John Worries is lacking "beef" for his team and unless some of the big fellows of the school lay aside their personal pride and get some real school spirit, the local high school is liable to be left in the lurch this year in the little eight high school conference. Coach John has a big job on his hands this year and though there will be little trouble in getting a backfield that will be able to make "yards," prospects for the line do not look so promising. Among the "H" men who will again wear a uniform this fall are Captain-elect Chermak who played quarterback and halfback last fall. Schuetz who was captain of last year's team and alternated at tackle and end with Raymond Jaeger, Panosh and Herman tackles, Jesewski, guard, and Kugler at center, Tadych at end. The latter two, however, failed to get into many games but will no doubt get a regular berth this fall. Schuetz and Panosh, both of whom played the line last year, will try out for backfield positions.

OLD PLAYERS BACK
Other men who were on the squad last year and who look extremely promising are Herb Meyer, who demonstrated that with a little training he could carry the ball from any backfield position as good as any of them and a good deal is expected of him this year as he had but little chance to show his ability last fall. "Ken" Morris, although very light, is a sure tackler and is going out for an end position together with Hillis, who last year looked like a sure thing at end but had a leg broken in an automobile accident a week before the first game. He is going out again this fall hoping for better luck. Harry Herman is also back. He played in a few of the games last year and although not a big lad is very shifty. Among other promising candidates who are out this fall are Halverson, Hobson, "Babe" Chermak, Schwab Kadow.

SCHUETTE A MAINSTAY
Coach John will rely a great deal upon Schuetz who is looking exceptionally fine this year. Most of his drives going between fifty and sixty yards. Chermak was a steady gainer on the team last year while Panosh, Jesewski and Kugler could be depended upon to "hold the line." The coach said today that he was not yet well enough acquainted with the student body to know just what material he could get for more "beef" for the line but that he expected at least ten more candidates out by the end of next week.

Many of the freshmen and sophomores who knew that they cannot make the team this year are going out, looking for the future and we will take our hats to the boys for they are the ones that make possible a championship team.

The Manitowoc high school opens up its season with a game at Appleton September 23. The race for the flag in the State league is still undecided despite the fact that the season's ending is but a week away. Manitowoc continues to rest on the top of the heap but Herzog's Shipbuilders are only half a game ahead of the fast traveling Menasha club and Green Bay. The schedule for the week end gives the Falls and Rays a better chance as they both get a crack at Appleton while the Shipbuilders have to battle both Leopold's and Nagel's hirelings.

Well, Kluwin's league has sung its swan song for the 1922 season. The book was closed with a "love feast" at Appleton. The moguls appeared to be willing to bury the hatchet with some of the so-called offenders. Possibly the Valleyites see the handwriting on the wall. Maybe "Czar" Kluwin will enlarge his wheel but we are willing to wager out next year's salary that the new additions won't be in cities where franchises are held by the Wisconsin State league clubs.

LET CURTAIN DOWN FOR SEASON'S BALL GAMES IN APPLETON

Saturday's Game Transferred to Menasha Recreation Grounds

Appleton's baseball season in the Wisconsin State league is over. The curtain act has been forced on sheer necessity as well as for the good of the game. Appleton's last game of the State league, which was scheduled at the league park here Saturday with Menasha was transferred to Menasha. Manager Sylvester announced reason for it was due to the solicitation of the Menasha ball club. The Menasha organization is tied with Green Bay for second place and the fans are losing considerable sleep in prayers that Green Bay and Manitowoc lose the next two games and the Pailmakers cop the rag. The Pailmakers have won both games the last week end and the Woodenwares city can't see why the act will not be repeated.

SEEK INDUSTRIAL HONORS
Then, also Saturday is the day scheduled for the championship game for the Industrial league honors at Menasha. The Writing Paper Company and the Menasha Printing and Carton Company teams are tied, both having won eight games and lost three. The State league moguls will use the Industrial league game as a preliminary drawing card. So the Appleton club can't be blamed for agreeing to transfer its game to Menasha because although Appleton has been able to fill the stands on Sunday it never did well Saturday.

The batteries for Appleton will be Pecon and probably Shett, Menasha will have Murchison and Delmore for its star actors.

The Writing Paper Company will use Weissberger and Renz for its battery. Blannette and Herman will represent the printers. Sunday Appleton will play at Green Bay and Manitowoc at Menasha. These games will complete the route, however, a post-season series still remains. No dates have been fixed for this.

ROD AND REEL

By DIXIE CARROLL

HANDLING THE ROD

A very important part of fishing, after the strike of the game one, is the handling of the rod in playing the fish. Not only is the spring of the rod necessary in throwing the cast, a thing that makes it unnecessary to use up your strength, but this same spring is the thing that plays the fish to a standstill if you use it right. After you have developed your casting to the point where you can start the cast with the backward swing and then let the momentum thus developed help on the forward sweep, you will find that you are throwing your bait with far less exertion than when you start the cast from the still position of the rod back over the shoulder. Of course, at the beginning it is well to start the cast with the rod back over the shoulder and the bait dangling down a trifle, say, reaching on a line with the waist. This is the position from which you make the forward sweep and develop your accuracy at the start. However, using the back and front cast gives you the

Big Ten Dictator

MAJOR JOHN L. GRIFFITH

John L. Griffith was born at Mt. Carroll, Ill. He is a graduate of Mt. Carroll high school and of Beloit college.

He coached at Yankton college, 1902-05, was director of athletics and athletic coach at Morningside college, 1905-08, and served as director of athletics and coach at Drake university, 1908-17, besides being dean of men at Drake for four years and, for one year, vice president. He also founded and managed the Drake relay.

He entered the military service in 1917. Thenceforward, until his discharge, with the rank of major, in October, 1919, his history was as follows:

Athletic officer for the 88th army division, with supervision over the physical and athletic work of 30,000 men; ordered, in August, 1918, to Camp Gordon, to assist in establishing a physical and bayonet school; placed in command, in September, of the physical and bayonet school at Camp Pike; ordered, in January, 1919, to Washington, and placed in command of the physical and bayonet school of the army in the United States; became, in September, 1919, senior instructor of a special physical and bayonet school established at the infantry school of arms by the general staff.

He was connected with the athletic department of the University of Illinois from October, 1919, until August, 1922.

He is editor and publisher of The Athletic Journal, chairman of the national collegiate track and field rules committee and a member of the N. C. A. A. track and field meet committee, work of the army in the United States.

UNITY IS NEEDED IN 'Y' ATHLETICS

A. P. Jensen Hears Plea for Changed Standards at State Conference

Cooperation between local branches of the Y. M. C. A. to bring about uniformity in athletic programs was stressed at the Employed Officers conference at Lake Geneva, which was attended by A. P. Jensen, physical director of the local association. Mr. Jensen returned to duty Monday after visiting his parents in Eau Claire for a few days.

A. F. Grimm, physical director at Madison, who is also president of the State Society of Physical Directors, declared that a uniform program of athletics would be a great help in competitive tournaments. Dr. H. F. Kallenberg, head of the international physical department for the central region, emphasized the promotion of community health and sanitation by physical directors.

The religious side of the Y. M. C. A. is being crowded out by other activities, it was deplored. Efforts should be made to restore its proper place in the Y. M. C. A. program, it was urged on the first day of the convention.

LOW SCORES IN WOMEN'S GOLF TOURNEY SCARCE

St. Louis—Thirty-two women were ready Tuesday to tee off in the first match rounds of the Western Women's Golf tournament which began at Glen Echo club Monday morning. Those participating in the championship matches having been paired after Monday's qualifying rounds, in which 98 women were entered.

Low scores in the qualifying rounds were scarce, the best being made by Mrs. Lee Mida, of the Eutawfield Country club, Chicago, who turned in 85. Miss Burns, of Kansas City with 89 stood with Mrs. Sterrett, Hutchinson, Kas., and Mrs. Gaur, of Memphis, tied for third, each having 92.

Mrs. Melvin Jones, of Chicago, present champion, made a 53.

advantage of every bit of action in your rod and also gives you more confidence in your cast, making the wrist and forearm do most of the work and yet doing it with such a small effort that you can cast all day without becoming tired in the arm and shoulder muscles. After the first strike of the game fish you set the hook with a backward jerk of the wrist, at which time usually the fish makes a decided effort to go to the far end of the lake or stream. Right at this point many fellows clamp the thumb down on the reel and the running fish, pulling like a bull pup, puts a strain on the rod that draws it into an arch that almost makes the tip touch the butt. The thing to do at this moment is to hold the nerves in, keep cool and let the fish take the line for a run, then as he slows down in the run let the rod arch and stop him.

M'CHESNEY SETS STAGE FOR DRILLS

Final Touches Are Given to Field Prior To First Practice Friday

Coach H. D. McChesney, of the Lawrence college grid machine, is getting the stage set for the first workout and roll call of his players Friday. While many of last year's veterans are already in the city and some of the new material have reported to the mentor, conference rules forbid earlier practice than Sept. 15.

In the meantime finishing touches are being given to the field. Grass, which seems to sprout despite the ground keeper's vigil, will have to be moved before Friday and there is some painting and minor patching of the fence and grandstand.

Coach McChesney spent Tuesday in equipping the men already in sight. Washington Senators went on a batting rampage against the Red Sox, everybody except Pitcher Brillheart gathering one or more hits. Goslin smashed out five hits in as many times at bat.

H. S. BACKFIELD SHY OF MATERIAL

Few Candidates Able To Qualify—Plenty of Men For Line

Candidates for high school football teams were subjected to a good workout Monday afternoon. Practice now is being held regularly in preparation for the first game of the season to be held in Appleton in a few weeks. The tackling dummy was put up at Jones' park Monday and will be used rather roughly for some time until the fellows learn the art of neat and effective tackling. Indications are that most trouble will be experienced in developing the back line. Coach Denney said there are more candidates for the line than are necessary but very few for back field positions. From material already on the field the coach feels confident of forming a strong and fast line. He will spend much of his time, however, in drilling men to carry the ball. With the exception of a few old "regulars" there are few boys after the positions who will qualify.

BOSTON DROPS TWO TO GIANTS; SCORE BOTH GAMES, 7-6

New York Increases Lead in Flag Chase To One and One-half Games

New York—The New York Nationals increased their lead to five and one-half games on Monday by twice defeating Boston by the same score, 7 to 6. In the first game Barnes pitched well for seven innings and had a lead of seven runs when he weakened and was stung for four runs in the eighth. In the second game Boston got off to a six run lead but the Giants scored five in their half of the fourth and won out in the seventh when Groh scored the tying run on Meusel's single and Kelly knocked in the winning run with a sacrifice fly. Batteries: McNamara, Braxton, Watson, Cooney, Marquard and Gowdy and O'Neil, Hill, Scott, V. Barnes, Ryan, J. Barnes and Snyder and Smith.

TRAILING THE TEAMS

Only three games are scheduled for Tuesday in the major leagues. The Tigers clashing with the Browns in St. Louis in the American league while Pittsburgh plays Boston and the Cardinals meet the Phillies in the two National league contests.

With Babe Ruth hitting two homers and two doubles Monday the Tanks had no difficulty in defeating the Athletics 9 to 4, the Bambino's clouts accounting for six of the tallies. The Browns maintained their position of 14½ games in the rear of the Yanks by winning from Detroit 5 to 4.

The Giants increased their lead over Pittsburgh for the National league pennant to 5½ games, by taking a double header Monday from Boston. These were the only contests in the National league.

Washington defeated Boston 12 to 3 in the only other major league contest, three game between the White Sox and Cleveland being rained out.

Ruth's two homers brought his total for the season to 31, just six behind Ken Williams, the 1922 leader for home run honors.

George Kelly did some heavy hitting for the Giants in their double header with the Braves. He collected a homer, double and three singles in seven times at bat.

Powell made half of Boston's eight hits in the second game with New York. The Braves' lead off man poked a triple, double and two singles in five times at bat.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Low Tandler, beat Ever Hammer, Chicago, in eight rounds.

Joplin, Mo.—Joplin won the 1922 pennants of the Western association.

Demetral Wins Wrestling Contest In 28 Minutes

Jazz and Harem Number Add Variety to Wrestling Match

A wrestling match under most unique circumstances was staged Monday night at the Waverly beach with Jimmy Demetral contender for the middleweight championship and Stanley Dowdzinski, Gary, Ind. pole, as the principal actors.

With a jazz band as a prelude, chorus girls in a harem number during the intermission, the match ended with Demetral winning two straight throws.

The jazz and the harem girls were not on the original bill of fare, but they say that plans of mice and men sometimes go astray.

GETS BRIGHT IDEA
The contest was originally scheduled in one of the large halls of the buildings on the beach. Seats were ready, and the roped arena was in ship shape. But probably due to the suddenness which the match was arranged, apparently news did not reach the majority of the fans and scarcely a handful was present when the contest was scheduled to begin at 8:30 o'clock Monday evening. Of course, it would never do to stage the match before the few paid admissions and for a while things looked as if the whole affair would be called off. But at this juncture Louis Saichek, manager of Demetral, got a bright idea. From an adjoining building came the strains of an orchestra and there were people in it so why not let as many as possible see the contest?

No sooner said than done. The orchestra was halted, the mat dragged in and laid on the dance floor and the match announced to the dancers and those who came to see the match. BODY SCISSORS WINS
Demetral tussled about with the Gary visitor for 28 minutes before he threw the challenger with a body scissors. Dowdzinski proved himself the strong man he was advertised but was a trifle slow for the Greek boy. Both had each other in danger on numerous occasions but failed to make the best of their opportunities. The ten minute intermission was enlivened with the harem number and dance.

Demetral had less trouble throwing Dowdzinski in the second stanza. A bar arm hold did the trick after 8 minutes.

Jake Schaefer, Madison, who was scheduled to wrestle with Dan Brown, Milwaukee, for lightweight honors, was the referee. The lightweight match was called off. Maurice E. Cartier, Appleton, was time keeper.

Demetral, following the match, left for Madison, where he will continue to train for the go with Johnny Meyers, middleweight champion, September 24, at the capital.

The White Sox and Indians will try for the third time Tuesday to play their final game of the season. The game originally was scheduled for Sunday, but was stopped by rain and put off until Monday, an open date, but rain again interfered so the contest will be staged Tuesday, weather permitting.

BABE RUTH'S TWO HOMERS HELP YANKS WIN FROM MACKS

Bambino Boosts Mark to 31 As Philadelphia is Downed 9 to 4

Philadelphia—Babe Ruth's thirtieth and thirty-first home runs of the season featured New York's 9 to 4 victory over Philadelphia on Monday. Ruth made his first circuit drive off Naylor in the fifth and his second off Schilling, a Texas league recruit in the eighth. Shawkey held the Athletics safe until the eighth inning, when they scored two runs on a home run and a walk. Welch hit a three run in the sixth inning.

Batteries: Shawkey and Hofmann and Schang; Ketchum, Schilling, Naylor, Hasty and Perkins.

BROWNS BEAT TIGERS
St. Louis—McManus' single in the ninth with the bases full and two out, enabled St. Louis to take Monday's game from Detroit, 5 to 4, and holding the margin between the Yankees and the locals to one and one-half games. McManus' single followed Sisler's triple and passes to William and Jacobson after Sisler had tied the score with his three base hit to right center.

Batteries: Ehmske and Bassler; Pruett, Davis and Severed.

GRIFFS BEAT BOSTON
Washington—Washington batted Boston pitchers hard on Monday and won handily, 12 to 3. Percy was batted out of the box in the fifth inning, and Karr, who took his place, was also hit hard. Brillheart was effective but wild, and Johnson relieved him in the fifth inning. Goslin led Washington with the stick, getting five clean singles in as many times at bat.

Batteries: Karr, Percy and Ruel; Johnson, Brillheart and Picinich.

Down Fondy way, Frank Heath, the sport scribe of the Fond du Lac Reporter, jokes about the propaganda war which has been staged by the rival organizations. There is more truth than poetry to his remarks but it was simply a case of necessity. At first, the Valley league moguls took the State circuit as a joke. Some of 'em even predicted a quick death but the new wheel has been built up on a firm foundation, backed by fair play jurisdiction, and it success seems assured despite the claims of Messrs. Kluwin, Grogan & Co.

It will not be long now before the baseball rosters begin to center their attention on the world series. As yet, the contenders in this year's diamond classic, are still too busily engaged in their own pennant league races to worry about the "money getting" games. The Giants look like a good bet in the National but it is a toss up in the American.

"that's more like it!"

Poor Frosh! Six Got Chilly Ducking In Park Fountain

While the sophomores of Lawrence college were chanting lustily "Chilly, chilly, chilly B. V. D." the chattering teeth of six scantily dressed freshmen in the city park foundation were knocking a cold accompaniment late Monday evening when the first freshmen of the season were humbled by a cold and involuntary dip. A group of more than 30 sophomores, wise in the ways of water and the city park dipping grounds, corralled a half dozen or more first year men, young in the ways of college youth, and marched them to the place where one short year ago the present victors were the victims.

Upon reaching the park with little resistance from the captives, the mob kindly decided that the new boys take their dip without ruining their nice new suits. The shivering minority complied with the order and took their dip with the usual number of chills and much splashing. As the cool and ever growing cooler breezes blew through the park the first year men were made to sing: "How Dry I Am," before returning to Brookway hall in their impromptu bathing suits.

An effort each year is made to stop the hazing of new men, but this fall the former students got in their "best licks" early. It is expected that the battle of numbers of new men will be on with a vengeance Tuesday night. As soon as the new men have a chance to get together, they will have the advantage of greatly outnumbering the second year men.

LEGION INVITES DUFFY TO SPEAK AT C. OF C. FORUM

State Commander Will Explain Bonus Here—Indorse Red Cross Work

F. Ryan Duffy of Fond du Lac, newly elected state commander of the American Legion, will be invited to speak before the chamber of commerce at its first forum meeting of the season, following action taken by Oney Johnston post of the legion at its opening fall gathering in Elk hall Monday evening.

Mr. Duffy will present the war veteran's side of the bonus issue. The chamber is keenly interested in the proposed soldier bonus law from an economic standpoint, and there is much discussion as to the wisdom of a government outlay of money at this time. The legion therefore was invited to furnish a speaker if the post wishes. The veterans chose the state commander because of his reputation as a public orator.

SCHOMMER SPEAKS
 Edgar P. Schommer's election as vice commander of the state legion department at the Beloit convention was announced, and Mr. Schommer gave a talk after he had been brought out of hiding by the sergeant-at-arms.

Indorsement of the Red Cross branch here in its work for disabled veterans was given in a vote of thanks to the organization, and to Miss Ann Helm, secretary. The post intends to do its share in maintaining the office for another year in order to complete execution of 362 claims pending on behalf of wounded or incapacitated veterans of the war.

OFFER MEMBERSHIP
 Former service men who join the post now will be given their membership for the remainder of the year without charge if they pay the yearly fee, which will be $3 after Jan. 1. The payment will carry them until Jan. 1, 1924.

L. Hugo Keller gave a report on the Beloit state convention, telling how Wisconsin has taken up the fight to have Dr. Sawyer, the president's physician, step out of the hospitalization project for wounded men on the relief work for veterans can go on unimpeded. The convention was the biggest held, Mr. Keller said. Superior gets the next meeting.

All members were urged to give hearty support to the play, "The Blue Bandits," which the post stages next week. They were urged not only to purchase tickets, but to assist in the sale and in promotion of a large attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Johnston, parents of Oney Johnston, after whom the post was named, treated the veterans to 50 gallons of fresh apple cider and about 500 doughnuts. Entertainment from Terrace Gardens gave a program of singing and dancing and the legion orchestra furnished music.

house an invalid. Dr. Sawyer was prevailed upon to come to Washington to be personal physician at the white house largely because he knew of Mrs. Harding's condition and the possibility of a crisis at any time.

STRUGGLE WITH FATE
 An indomitable will which so often enables a patient to overcome seemingly insurmountable obstacles gives Mrs. Harding a fighting chance. The best medical attention that can be marshalled is here. It is therefore a struggle with fate—a dramatic struggle in which the heartstrings of government are pulled taut for Mrs. Harding is popular, decidedly so. Ever since she came to the executive mansion she has exhibited an intense interest in everything and everybody.

She is endowed with qualities of demeanor that make her the same modest personality today that she was before her husband was thrust into the limelight. Mrs. Harding has not been "spoiled" by the white house atmosphere—she has assumed no airs of regality and has developed no habits of social seclusion. Mrs. Harding, on the contrary has busied herself with things outside the white house. She owes her critical illness, somewhat to her undiminished activity in spite of the usual warning against overwork and strain.

COUNSELOR TO PRESIDENT
 As a counselor to the president, Mrs. Harding has been notably dominant. Her influence is constantly in the direction of emphatic action and decisive steps. She is a helpmate whose advice has been followed in many of the most important acts of the chief executive for she has the intuition of a woman and the sagacity of a politician.
